

ABSTRACT

A method and a device for processing graphical information found on postal deliveries, wherein the graphical information of a first postal delivery is sorted on the basis of a first result of an evaluation, physical sorting of a second postal delivery is triggered by the sorting of the graphical information on the first postal delivery, and a further physical sorting of the first postal delivery, resulting from a reference code, is carried out.